Cheerleaders Recount Hawaiian Invitational

by Keri McAlpine

Starting freshman year, cheerleaders at Zephyrhills High School watch as seniors are whisked away to Hawaii for a week of fun, sun and cheering. Five squad members were able to attend the Oahu-based Cheer Hawaii USA camp this year, held at the University of Hawaii campus. Cheerleaders from across the country attended the

Longtime Basketball Coach To Guide Girls Team

by Dave Walters

When it came to finding a coach for the Zephyrhills High School girls' basketball team, athletic director Bruce Cimorelli didn't have far to look. The coaching search ended as quick as a fast break when he named veteran coach Dale Palmer as the varsity girls' basketball coach.

Palmer's name is synonymous with basketball in Zephyrhills as he paced the hardwoods for more than 30 years. His career tipped off 42 years ago at the former Zephyrhills Junior High School (now RB Stewart Middle School). He coached the 7th and 8th grade boys and girls teams. He moved up to Zephyrhills High School where he coached on the junior varsity and varsity levels for both boys' and girls' basketball. Palmer retired from teaching in 2007, yet still coached for three more years before hanging up his whistle. It didn't dangle on the hook for long as he came back for a season to coach at Centennial Middle School. Palmer • Continued from Page 2B

Deem, Lexie Jackson, Annica Morgan, Madison Reidenbach and Alexi Silas.

In order to attend, the girls had to raise around $2,500 to get their name on the list. Car washes, selling different foods and setting up booths at community events kept them busy this past school year with a dream of Hawaiian beaches in their future.

“It’s a really hefty cost and I never expected my parents to just hand me all that. So being able to go out and do things for the community in order to get money back was very hard and it took a long time,” Morgan said.

The girls agreed on how supportive the Zephyrhills community was while they were raising funds.

Everyone also agreed on their favorite aspect of the trip: the Hawaiian beaches.

“It was a lot like here but the water was a lot more blue. It was really pretty,” Silas, 18, said, clearly remembering the sight in her head.

The girls were taught dances and cheers they are now able to bring back to Zephyrhills and teach their fellow cheerleaders. The invitational also offered tips and answered questions concerning college cheerleading tryouts.

A challenging, yet rewarding, aspect of the trip was the introduction of different cheering techniques from the other attendees.

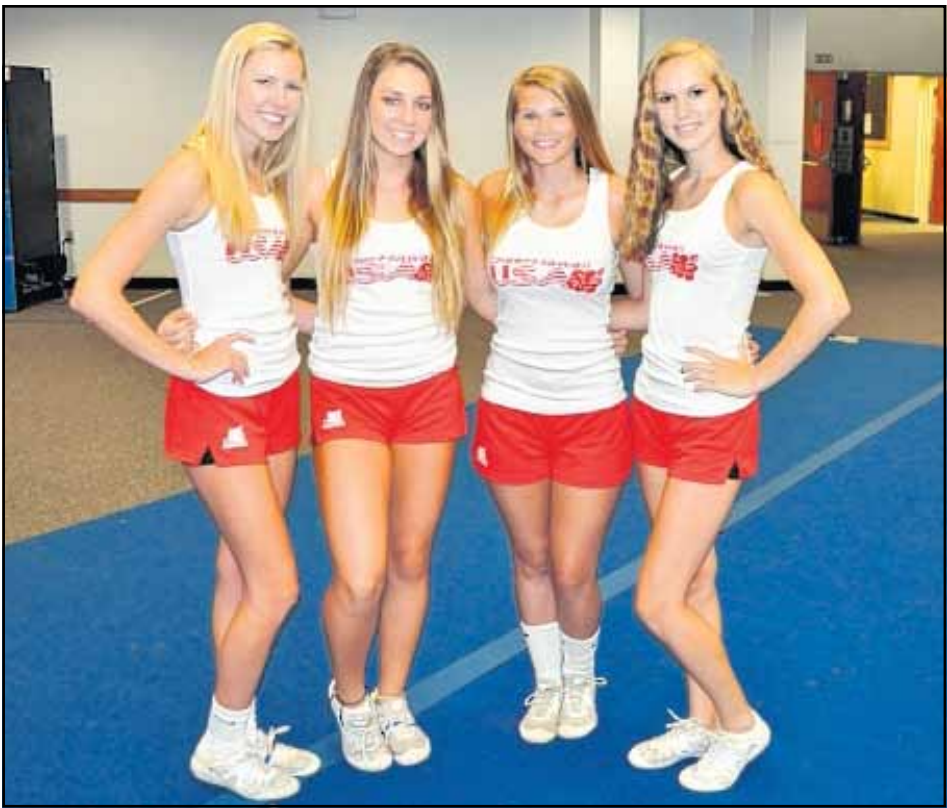

“There’s some parts of the country that don’t stunt or don’t dance ... So when you come to this camp you have to learn how to teach each other and build off of each other in order to ... make a solid team and that way you can perform,” Morgan, 17, said. “I thought that was pretty awesome – to see how different it was across the country.”

“They have so many different techniques and trying to bring it all together was actually a lot better than I had planned,” Jackson, 16, said.

The girls also learned about Hawaiian culture, including traditional dances.

“My favorite part was learning about the ‘aloha spirit’ and what that means to them,” Reidenbach said.

“I loved experiencing the culture and meeting the people. They’re so friendly and they’re so welcoming to everyone and I really loved that,” Morgan said.

After a four-year hiatus, he’s back; replacing Mike Smith, who stepped down to spend more time watching his daughters play basketball in Hillsborough County.

“A lot of people were surprised to see me,” said Palmer. “It’s going to be fun. I’ve been around long enough, I can teach a few things out there.”

Palmer gets almost giddy when he talks about his return to his home court.

“It is a big honor and the grin on my face is rather large,” he said. “It took three days for it to sink in.”

Palmer is pushing the program to move past the April scandal when former junior varsity coach Samuel Walker was arrested for inappropriate conduct with a student.

“The actions of a coach don’t bleed over to the kids,” Palmer said. “It’s a black eye for the school and it’s one they could not foresee. We have to move on as quickly as we can.”

Bicycling Barber Packs A Punch

Marlon Farr Aims To Be The Best He Can Be

Story and photos by Joe Potter

There’s more to Marlon Farr of Zephyrhills than initially meets the eye.

Farr, 40, is a barber, boxer and bicyclist in that order.

He began cutting hair at age 13 under the watchful eye of his mother while he was growing up in Howardville, Mo. He received his barber’s license in 2000, six years after he moved to Florida.

“It was something I just picked up,” Farr said regarding his work as a barber.

He had a barbershop on Meridian Avenue in Dade City for a year before moving to his current location at 14603 Seventh St. in 2006.

Marlon Farr’s Outdoor Sport bicycle can handle all types of terrain and allows him to ride from Zephyrhills to Dade City and back for work.

There are a lot of memories tucked into the space where he operates his Team Farr barbershop on the east side of the main drag, just north of Little Cesar’s Pizza.

He said he chose the name Team Farr for his barbershop because it reflects his outlook on life.

“Team Farr is about having the will to be good at what you put your mind to. Don’t give up on your goals,” Farr said.

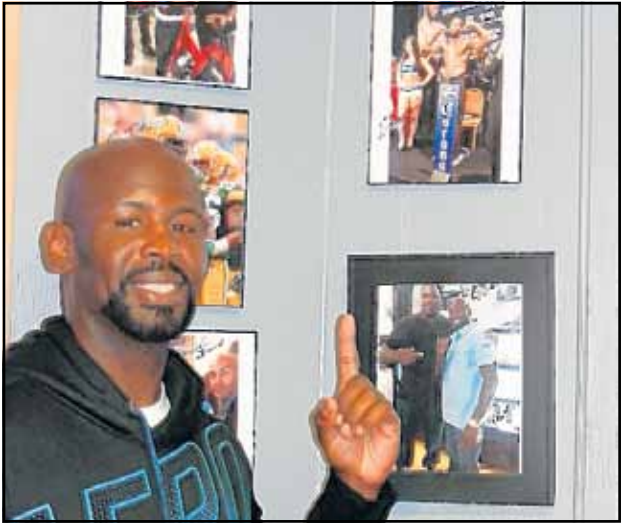

“No matter what the consequences are, you should still strive to be a good person and a good athlete.”

Framed posters depicting phases in his life hang on the walls of his barbershop.

Some of them show his accomplishments while competing as a professional boxer since age 35 in the super middleweight division. He has boxed all across the country and one of his bouts was even broadcast live on ESPN. Farr said he plans to fight for another five years.

Framed photographs or posters of his children, who attend Zephyrhills schools, are also prominently displayed.

Farr works out regularly at a gym to help keep himself in fighting trim and to do so he bought a seven-speed Outdoor Sport fat-tired beach bicycle about a year ago.

Marlon Farr points to an autographed photograph of himself taken after one of his professional boxing matches.

Marlon Farr stands behind his barber’s chair at Team Farr on Seventh Street in Dade City.

Six months ago, Farr began riding the bicycle from his home south of the Zephyrhills airport to his barbershop. The two-hour round trip ride is a good cardiovascular workout for him, Farr said. He added he wears a 30-pound weighted vest while he pedals.

He doesn’t have to take the paved bicycle trail that runs parallel to U.S. 301 between Kossik Road and Dade City Avenue because his bicycle operates as well on dirt as it does on pavement. He usually takes U.S. 301 directly to Dade City but occasionally rides on Wire Road for part of the trip.

“You really have to dig when you are going up that hill at Centennial,” Farr said.

Farr said he listens to fight music while he is cycling because it gives him more energy.

“I’m doing whatever I can to stay young,” he said.

A Letter From Special Olympics Florida President/CEO

‘We Need More Revolutionaries’

Submitted by Sherry Wheelock

July 20 represents Eunice Kennedy Shriver Day. In 1962, Special Olympics founder Eunice Kennedy Shriver began inviting young people with intellectual disabilities to a summer day camp she hosted in her backyard. She called it, Camp Shriver. The goal was to explore the children’s skills in a variety of sports and physical activities. That first Camp Shriver grew into what is now known as Special Olympics, a global movement serving more than 4.9 million athletes. Today, Camp Shriver is still an integral part of our program using sports as a vehicle to bring children with and without disabilities together so they have opportunities to develop their motor and social skills, create positive peer relationships and make new friends.

Recently, I was honored to recognize local champions who continue to celebrate Shriver’s legacy with the effort that started it all – Camp Shriver. During my visit to the City of Miami Sandra DeLuca Center, I was greeted by heroes and champions enjoying time at their summer camp. Shriver would have been proud to stand by me and recognize the City of Miami and local leaders like Charlie DeLuca for bringing her vision to life. We provide these camps and all of our programs free of cost to our participants and their caregivers to ensure everyone who wants to attend can do so. However, with over 300,000 people in Florida estimated to have an intellectual or developmental disability, the need to offer more of these life changing experiences is imperative. To make this possible, we need revolutionaries like you to help us bring more of these amazing camps to our great state. Shriver proved that one small action can make a lasting impact beyond imagination. Next year is the 50th anniversary of Special Olympics, and it would be a great tribute to an incredible founder and all of our athletes to offer Camp Shriver in every county throughout Florida. If you are interested in helping us make this possible, please reach out to me directly at sherrywheelock@sofl.org so together we can serve those who need us most.
