Run For The Hills Raised Money For Awareness

Story and photos by Dave Walters

When the more than 170 runners took off from the starting line at the Run for the Hills 5K at Florida Hospital Zephyrhills, their thoughts were about getting back to the finish line with a good time.

"We want people to have a starting point for a new passion, like running a 5K," said Creation Health Wellness Center director Casio Jones. "We try to find ways to get active and get involved in their health."

The overall goal of the race was to raise funds to promote awareness for diabetes and diabetes education.

coach Nick Carroll.

“This is a big learning curve for these kids to take every game like it’s their last game,” said head coach Nick Carroll. “This game was more important to us than the Wesley Chapel game.

“We’re going to make noise in the playoffs.”

Last Friday the Bulldogs jumped out to a 7-0 lead, but fell behind 13-7 early in the second quarter. Zephyrhills took the lead 14-13 at the 9:12 mark of the second quarter and never trailed, staking a 36-point lead in the third quarter before running out the clock.

Wide receiver Jaquan Sheppard had two touchdowns, one on the ground and another through the air. Running back Myles Carter and Elijah Thomas each added a rushing touchdown.

Brett Lemay and Sterlin Williams take down an Anclote running back.

“All of us get a chance to score,” said Sheppard, who has 12 touchdowns on the season. “It’s different from last year. No one knew who we were coming into this year. We are all young and they will know us for a long time.”

Quarterback Charles Harrison III passed for 133 yards and a TD and ran for a pair of touchdowns himself. Tre’pavis Mobley had six catches for 102 yards with a touchdown.

“It feels good to get back to the playoffs,” Harrison said. “Coach told us to play hard and do whatever we can to win tonight. We got that goal and we’re going to the playoffs.”

Harrison’s touchdown pass came on a 36-yard Hail Mary heave in the closing seconds of the first half where Mobley tipped the ball in the end zone and into the waiting arms of Darius Causey.

“I just threw it up and hoped somebody would get it and somebody did,” Harrison said.

“The rule is if you can’t catch it, tip

it,” Mobley said. “We work on that in practice and that’s how it’s done.”

Adding to the scoring was reserve quarterback Jake Adams, who threw touchdown passes to Sheppard and Nick Loss.

The Bulldogs are back in action Friday for a huge backyard rivalry with Pasco in the “Nine-Mile War.”

“It’s a great place to play at and we’ll do our best to come away with a victory,” said Carroll, who started three seasons on the Bulldogs varsity team that played in the rivalry. “It’s all about intensity. There’s no better feeling as a Bulldog than playing against Pasco High School.”

The intensity has already started on social media when Mobley, the brother of Bulldog standout Antwione Sims, started hearing smack talk from a Pasco player.

“He said he is better than my whole family,” Mobley said. “We’re just going to blow them out like everybody else and go on to the playoffs.”

City Tennis Courts Will Be Built To USTA Standards

by Joe Potter

Zephyrhills plans to have a city-owned tennis center that will be designed by the United States Tennis Association. The courts will be located on five acres of property within The District At Abbott's Square, a housing development in the works for the city's west side.

There will be 14 to 16 courts and related tennis facilities to accommodate regional and national tournaments. There will also be 21,000 square-feet of retail space, ball fields, pools, and clubhouses at the Abbott's Square development, which will also include additional recreation. In exchange for traffic impact fee credits, both Simons Road and Dean Dairy Road will be improved to city standards. Those road improvements are anticipated to begin in mid- to late 2017, said Zephyrhills City Planner Todd Vande Berg. Construction is not anticipated to start at the site until those road improvements have occurred, he said. Meanwhile, the city plans to do some work on the tennis courts at Shepard's Park this fiscal year. Once built, Abbott's Square will sprawl across 167.52 acres and is zoned for multi-family and single-family development. The current plan is approved for 124 single-family homes, 44 duplex units, 152 townhome units and 768 multifamily units.

"We have a huge population of diabetics here," Jones said. "Diabetes is a lifestyle issue and ... the more people who get help, the more we can help people." "We want to use the resources we have to help our community. It's a win-win." Making up a good portion of runners were members of the Zephyrhills High School Cross Country team, which included overall 5K winner Tommy Locke, who got through the 3.11-mile course in 18:49. "I love this," said Locke, who also won the event last year. "It's so much fun having the whole community together for a run. It's great to have the team here, too. I love this team."

Bulldogs' coach James Kretschmar used his team to connect with the community and help with a cause that raises awareness regarding diabetes.

Nora Ripley joins Casio Jones of the Creation Health Wellness Center, winning the female under 18 class.

The Zephyrhills High School Booster Club provided the entry fees for all the Bulldog athletes who participated. "We like to get the kids more involved in ... running in a different atmosphere," Kretschmar said. "We had a lot of personal bests today, so it shows if they are running in a non-competitive environment, they are relaxed and it brings their confidence up." Terry Prueher, a 76-year-old, who runs two 5K races a year, was the final participant to cross the finish line, but that didn't faze him a bit. "It's important to finish," Prueher said. "If you start something you should finish it. It gives me a good feeling of confidence when I finish it. I'm not that fastest guy in the world, but at least I finished."

Bully-Free Initiative Offering Literacy Training

by Keri McAlpine

Bee Bully-Free will be holding its first literacy coach training session next week at no charge.

The hour-long course will teach potential volunteers positive strategies and techniques on how to help struggling readers build confidence and enjoy reading.

“We’re going to make it fun and quick and easy,” said MJ Price of Bee Bully-Free. “These are skills folks can also use with their own children and grandchildren.”

Participants will explore Orton-Gillingham, Stevenson, IRLA, HiLo Readers, Explore the Code, Primary Phonics, Hooked On Phonics, Pneumonics and other methods to help young readers excel.

In addition to receiving training as a literacy coach, attendees will also receive child protection policy training, which will make them equipped and ready to volunteer as a reading coach or volunteer in the school system.

Price said the session will walk volunteers through the Pasco County school district’s volunteer application to make the process as easy as possible.

“They don’t have to just use it in the district, they can also use it in other avenues as well or with other adults who are struggling readers” Price said of those who wish to participate. No experience or prior training is necessary to attend.

The training session will take place on Nov. 13 from 3 to 4 p.m., at the Goin’ Postal Headquarters, 4941 Fourth St., on the east side of Zephyr Park. Spaces are reserved for adults age 18 and up. Childcare will not be available.

Price’s son and daughter started Bee Bully-Free about three years ago when they were only four and six years old.

Class size is limited and interested parties are asked to RSVP by Nov. 11 by contacting drmjpricegp@gmail.com or leaving a message by calling (813) 782-1500 x104.

Bee Bully-Free has donated hundreds of books and hosted events such as bully-free dodge ball at local schools to promote friendship.

Patriotic Project Underway At Zephyrhills High School

Students Collecting, Retiring Worn Out Stars And Stripes

by Keri McAlpine

The Zephyrhills High School Junior ROTC battalion has begun collecting old and battered American flags as part of their annual service-learning project.

The old flags will be retired in burning ceremonies held by the students, who will also work to distribute new flags throughout the community.

Glenda Montgomery, ZHS senior and JROTC battalion commander, is leading the effort, which is called Project Patriotism.

“I thought this would be a good way to get our program more involved in the community and at the same time get our community more excited about patriotism and their pride for their country,” Montgomery said.

First Sgt. Jimmy McAuley said

Montgomery and her peers are some of the most patriotic students he has taught, so the Old Glory project is a perfect fit for the battalion.

Montgomery recently spoke to city council about the project, and has been going to businesses door to door, asking them to support the project.

“When I came to Zephyrhills, I noticed that the kids are very patriotic here. And I really enjoy that aspect of it,” McAuley said. “They want to wear the uniform and represent the flag. They understand the meaning behind it, and that’s a great thing.”

When members of the community hand in their old flags, JROTC will give them a new flag to display. For now, the battalion’s budget only allows them to distribute 4 x 6 nylon flags, which cost about $20 each. McAuley said the program has raised about $1,400 since Sept. 26, which will go toward ordering new flags and the burning ceremonies for the old flags.

As of Oct. 13, Project Patriotism had received eight flags, with five of them donated just that day. Montgomery said the students planned on holding a burning ceremony for the flags once every school quarter. However, if they receive a lot of flags they might switch to once a month.

The JROTC program has about 130 cadets who will take turns hosting the burning ceremonies in smaller groups.

“They’re pretty rugged. Some of them are ripped, and some of them are just faded,” Montgomery said of the retired flags.

The official flag code suggests to retire a flag “when it’s not serviceable,” Montgomery said, so it could be up to personal preference as to when it needs to be retired.

Community members, especially those who turned in an old flag, are welcome to attend the JROTC burning ceremonies, which will be announced ahead of time.

“I think it will be pretty great. It will be a nice experience,” Montgomery said, looking forward to the first burning ceremony. “It’s really meaningful to somebody like us, who are so involved in the military lifestyle, to retire a flag.”

The battalion has not yet determined what kind of ritual they will lead. There are the basic steps that must be included in the ceremony – the flag must be burned completely, and the ashes buried after, McAuley said. Personal touches are encouraged, such as reciting the Pledge of Allegiance or the ZHS JROTC creed.

Montgomery and the other students will prepare a brief on Project Patriotism for when higher headquarters will visit the school in March.

To conclude the service-learning project JROTC students will write a paper reflecting on the project’s effects on themselves and the community.

“It’s an overall battalion effort,” McAuley said. “I want everyone to get something out of this. Every kid should feel a sense of pride in what we’re doing.”

Contact JROTC at (813) 794-6283 or projectpatriotismfl@gmail.com to submit a flag or make a donation to Project Patriotism.

Flags can be mailed in to: 6335 12th St., Zephyrhills, FL 33542. Sponsorship opportunities are also available for individuals and businesses.
